

MOTHER CONFIDENT HAUPTMANN WON'T BE ELECTROCUTED

"Justice Will Have Its Way In The End," She Tells Guests

MAY GET REPRIEVE

Next Legal Move in Case Is To Be Petition To One Of
The Justices

(Copyrighted by I. N. S.)

KAMENZ, Germany, Jan. 16.—"My son will not be executed," Frau Pauline Hauptmann, mother of the convicted Lindbergh baby murderer, declared in an exclusive interview today, at which she was given the latest news from Trenton.

Frau Hauptmann, who earlier in the week appeared to be bearing a nervous breakdown, as the date of her son's execution approaches, today no longer was a lonely, old lady weeping tears; instead she entertained a group of women neighbors. All quoted her words, that Bruno would not die.

Frau Hauptmann wore a neat black dress and her hair was trimly done. She served her guests with a steady hand. "Justice will have its way in the end," she said. "I know my son will not be executed. As his mother, I feel convinced everything will come out alright, and he will be pardoned."

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Even though the "electrocution by electricity" of Bruno Richard Hauptmann is set for eight o'clock tomorrow night, the report persisted today that somehow the convicted murderer of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby isn't going to die on scheduled time.

The next legal move in the world's most celebrated criminal case will be a petition to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. If this action in Washington fails, Hauptmann's last remaining hope will be Governor Harold C. Hoffman.

What Governor Hoffman will do he himself will not reveal at this time. But an inquiring reporter can get any number "off the record" predictions that the Governor will grant Hauptmann at least a thirty-day reprieve.

Hauptmann is "quite cheerful," his spiritual adviser, the Rev. John Mathiesen, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, informed International News Service. Prisoner Number 17,400, the most publicized criminal in all history, is still cheerful even though electricians have tested the lethal chair and found it to be in first rate condition.

His loyal wife, Anna, has not lost faith. She still says "Richard will not die." Maybe Hauptmann has communicated his unwavering optimism to her. To quote the Rev. Mathiesen, Hauptmann said to him late yesterday: "Within myself I have a confidence that all will come out all right. I do not care to deceive that confidence."

This statement was made by Hauptmann even after he had learned that Federal Judge J. Warren Davis in Trenton had denied his application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Germany and officials of the Fatherland are watching developments in the Hauptmann drama with the utmost interest, in the opinion of the Rev. Mathiesen. He is confident that even Adolf Hitler himself is keenly interested. The pastor admitted he has been in touch with the German consul in New York concerning the case.

Hauptmann's two-year-old son, Manfred, has been brought to Trenton and is with his mother in a Trenton hotel, occupying a room, incidentally, on the same floor as this correspondent. The baby, a healthy child, did a lot of lusty wailing last night.

Mrs. Hauptmann is not going to make any eleventh-hour appeal to Gov. Hoffman to save her husband from the chair, as reported.

Burial of Mrs. G. Stiriz To Occur in Philadelphia

CROYDON, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Pauline Stiriz, widow of Gustave Stiriz, who died at her home on Sunday, will be buried today in Bellevue Cemetery, Philadelphia. The funeral service will be held this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Scharg, Croydon. The Rev. Burner will officiate.

The late Mrs. Stiriz was born in Germany 87 years ago. She had made her home in this state for the past 55 years. A fracture of the hip suffered three years ago is said to have caused her death.

Survivors include five daughters and one son: Miss Zester Stiriz, Mrs. Carrie Scharg, Croydon; Mrs. Arthur Till, Mrs. William Graham, Mrs. James Wilcox, and Herman Stiriz, Philadelphia.

MISS KINES' PUPILS AT CROYDON RECEIVE BANNER

For Largest Attendance of Parents at Mothers' and Fathers' Meeting

R. CAIRNS PRESIDES

CROYDON, Jan. 16.—The meeting of the Mothers' and Fathers' Association held Tuesday night at Croydon public school building was in charge of Robert Cairns.

A communication from the Croydon Fire Company was read, and a committee appointed to meet with the fire company at their first meeting, as suggested. The banner which was presented for attendance has been held by the seventh grade, Miss Kines, teacher. The banner is given for the largest attendance at meetings of parents of the pupils in the various grades.

The entertainment committee reported a card party for Friday night, January 31st. The meeting closed with a favorable report from William Waiman, treasurer. William Kines arranged a card and bingo party for the social which followed the meeting. With the assistance of Mrs. Waiman and Mrs. Cairns, everybody present enjoyed this delightful affair. Four new members were received.

Represented

By John Lodwick

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 16.—(Special)—Tourist records are being shattered anew as thousands of northern "sunshoppers" desert blizzard land for the warmth and summerlike weather of the Sunshine City, plowing through the snowdrifts of the snow-belt southwards into the tropics for a long round of gaiety, outdoor sports, garden parties and dinner dances, beach picnics and boating excursions.

Pennsylvania's great tourist colony is reaching into greater proportions as every community within the Keystone commonwealth is represented by seasonal guests.

Members of the Pennsylvania Tourist Society, largest of the State social groups, elected new officers for the ensuing season. Rev. C. K. Newell of Philadelphia was chosen president, and Ralph G. Schroeder of Reading, vice president. Mrs. J. J. Calhoun of Wilkesburg, was elected secretary, and the Rev. Thomas R. Crooks of Philadelphia, treasurer.

Meetings of the tourist body are held every week at Tourist Auditorium where Keystone visitors are welcome. For the ninth consecutive year, a Philadelphia society matron has been selected as general chairman of the annual Charity Ball for the benefit of the American Legion Hospital for Crippled Children. This year Mrs. Donald B. Grady of Ridley Park, Philadelphia, accepted the honor. Among others who have served in this capacity from the Pennsylvania me-

Succeeds Dr. H. C. Terry;
Officers Installed At
Middletown Meeting

A LITERARY PROGRAM

LANGHORNE, Jan. 16.—Officers were installed at the bi-weekly meeting of Middletown Grange, in the Friends School-house, last evening. The installing officer was Pomona Deputy Frank Magill, of Buckingham.

Those installed are: Master, Henry Pickering, who succeeds Dr. H. C. Terry to this post; overseer, Andrew Hibbs; chaplain, Edwin E. Ridge; lecturer, Mrs. Anna Johnson; secretary, Mrs. Anna Thompson; steward, Jacob Hibbs; gate keeper, Dr. H. C. Terry; assistant steward, George Yerkes; lady assistant steward, Mrs. George Yerkes; Pomona, Miss Hannah Hibbs; Ceres, Mrs. Jacob Hibbs; Flora, Mrs. Hugh B. Webster; treasurer, Frank D. Thompson; member of the executive committee, Jesse G. Webster.

A literary program was presented under leadership of the new lecturer, Mrs. Johnson, this including a reading by Mrs. May Newbold, songs, and other numbers.

Approximately 25 were in attendance, the group later being served with refreshments.

The next meeting, Wednesday evening, January 29th, will occur at the home of the new Master, Mr. Pickering, Woodbourne.

Instruction Program Is Given By Bristol Union

The W. C. T. U. meeting, Tuesday evening, was held at the home of the Misses Rogers, Jefferson avenue, after which the devotional service was conducted by Mrs. A. B. Sands, the new evangelistic director. A period of silence and prayer was observed as tribute to the following members: Mrs. Elizabeth Crichton and Mrs. Etta Lawrence, who recently passed away.

Miss Jane Rogers introduced two boys, John Pappotto, president, and Carmen Pieo, treasurer, of Washington street school L. T. L. who entertained with duets on hum-borns.

Miss Gertrude Pope conducted a quiz on state reports. Miss Jane Rogers demonstrated the opposite effect of water and alcohol on bread, the albumen of an egg, and a piece of liver, the water moistening and holding the solution, the alcohol hardening and dehydrating, thus showing the harmful effect on the vital organs of the body, and proving it to be, while useful on the outside, disastrous on the inside. "The proper place for alcohol," Henry Ford was quoted, "is in the engine, not in the engineer."

Mrs. William P. Betz, director of relief, reported 65 bags of groceries, potatoes and apples distributed to five families at Christmas time. A vocal duet by Mrs. Russell DeLong and Mrs. A. B. Sands, and a piano solo by Miss Mary Rogers, were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

tropolis were Mrs. Will Payne, wife of the noted economist and novelist; Mrs. Bayard C. Cook and Mrs. O. G. Hiestand. The ball will be held at the Hotel Vinoy Park, January 24th.

Other outstanding social events of the season include the annual Junior League Revue and dance February 7th, Valentine costume balls at the Huntington, Soreno, Suwannee, Princess Martha and Vinoy Park February 14th, Washington birthday dinner dances February 22nd, the Orange Blossom, Yacht Club, Army and Navy, Shrine, Festival and All States Societies dinner dances in March.

Among the recent arrivals from Bucks County who are enjoying their visit in the Sunshine City are Mrs. Bertha C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fretz, Miss Elizabeth Knight, Joseph A. Ruos, Miss Ellen Scheetz and Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Scheetz, Doylestown; Howard G. Mitchell, Roberta A. Ridge and Mrs. J. A. Taylor, Langhorne; Mr. and Mrs. David Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Bennett and Mrs. Kirk Black, Yardley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Samuel Althouse, James Gregg and Mr. and Mrs. George Rantz, Perkaskie; Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Laudenslager and Charles T. Leitch, Quakertown; Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Cook, Jr., and Miss Evelyn L. Worthington, Newtown; Rev. and Mrs. Thomas R. Crooks and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fireman, New Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Penwick Pew, and Mrs. Edna M. White, Morrisville.

Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Huntsman and Cyrus E. Smith, Hulmeville; Mr. and Mrs. S. C. VanHorn, Wrightstown; Mrs. Lillian R. Flowers, Woodside; Rev. E. H. Trafford, Weisel; George Williamson and Miss Katherine Williamson, Upper Black Eddy; Jackson Dunlap, South Langhorne; Mr. and Mrs. James C. Goering, Newportville; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Laudenslager and Clifford Laudenslager, Dublin; William G. Kratz and I. L. Lukens, Bristol; and Walter R. Egbert, Chalfont.

PHILA. MAN DEFENDANT IN TWO DAMAGE SUITS

New Englanders Claim Damages Aggregating $10,000
For Injuries

AN AUTO ACCIDENT

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 16.—W. Richard Scarlett, 1345 West Caldwell street, Philadelphia, has been named the defendant in two damage suits, aggregating a claim of $10,000, filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

In the first suit, the plaintiff, Evelyn D. Jean, alleges that she was a guest in an automobile owned by Mabel F. Lundy, but which was operated by James T. Lundy, near Fallsington, on the Lincoln Highway, when it collided with a truck driven by the defendant or one of his employees.

The plaintiff alleges that she suffered injuries to her back, a sprained left arm and nervous shock.

The defendant is charged with being responsible for the collision because of negligence in the operation of his vehicle.

The accident happened March 9, 1934, and the plaintiff is a resident of New Bedford, Mass. She hopes to recover the sum of $5,000.

In a second statement of claim, filed against Scarlett, Juliet F. Reilly avers that March 9, 1934, she was a guest in a car owned by Mabel F. Lundy and figured in an automobile accident which involved the defendant's truck.

For the expenditure involved because of medical attention and doctors' bills, the plaintiff seeks the sum of $5,000.

The latter plaintiff also resides in New Bedford, Mass.

Fallsington Union Gives Stevens Memorial Program

FALLSINGTON, Jan. 16.—The monthly meeting of Fallsington W. C. T. U. was held Friday at the home of the Misses Mary and Effie Watson. The following officers were present: President, Mrs. Hannah Hartman; vice-presidents, Miss Mary Watson, Mrs. Elizabeth Winder, Mrs. Sarah Woolston; treasurer, Miss Effie Watson; secretary, Mrs. Mildred Whitlock. This meeting being held in memory of Lillian M. N. Stevens, part of the evening was given over to a special program. Numbers were presented by Mrs. Hartman, Miss Helen McCloskey, Mrs. Winder, Mrs. Woolston and Mrs. Whitlock. Refreshments were enjoyed.

To Teach Bucks County History in Public Schools

Bucks County history is to be taught in the public schools of the county, within the next few months.

According to County Superintendent of Schools J. H. OTHER NEWS ITEMS

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 16.—A fine program of entertainment featured the annual banquet of the Capitol View firemen held at the Leghorn Farms and attended by nearly 150 firemen and their guests. The only speech making was a very short address of welcome by Mayor Thomas B. Stockham. A turkey supper was served.

Aside from the members the guests were: James Groome, of Yardley, president of the Bucks County Firemen's Association; William L. Stackhouse, county fire marshal; the Rev. Francis A. Smith, of Fallsington; David Newell, Mercer County fire marshal; Councilmen Paul Nichols, John Sumner, Frank Hibbs, William Davis, Russell Pfleger and Edwin Greenlee; Tax Collector Neal Nolan, former Councilman John Bleasdale, fire chief Frank Miller and Charles H. Heller, George Duke was chairman of the committee in charge.

Because of a great need for a new automobile for the use of the community nurse, a meeting will be held soon when representatives from all the organizations in Morrisville will meet to discuss a drive to raise funds. The Italian Women's Club has already pledged $50 toward such a fund. The Red Cross at its meeting this week discussed the need for such an automobile.

Mrs. Hugh Erwin, the newly-elected president announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen: Transportation, Mrs. Henry Comfort; nursing, Mrs. Joseph Schermerhorn; clothing, Mrs. Isaac Scott, Sr.; card party, Mrs. Floyd Platt; knitting, Mrs. Frank Pryor; sewing, Miss Agnes Rule; car, Robert Stockham; social service, Mrs. Lottie Forsythe; disaster, Mrs. Wallace Richards; Junior Red Cross, Mrs. William Schofield, Jr. The roll call and the finance committee chairmen will be named later.

Mrs. A. L. Jamison was named secretary of the organization to fill a vacancy. The meeting voted to seek permission from the Board of Education to hold the monthly card parties in Summerseat. The Junior Red Cross will have a vice chairman in all schools, including Fallsington. The work of this branch consists of the children making remembrances for the overseas men and the hospital veterans. They also make children's garments and scrap books. Mrs. Helen Howe reported that gifts of candy, books, jellies and clothing had been sent to the hospital service before Christmas. Mrs. Comfort, of the transportation committee, reported that a number of patients had been taken to hospitals.

BRISTOL'S HEALTH RECORD GOOD; ONLY 102 DEATHS OCCURRED HERE DURING 1935; BIRTHS TOTALLED 242

Most of the Communicable Diseases Were Those Which Are Common to Children — Not a Single Case of Typhoid Fever Reported During Year — Board to Watch Foodstuffs Displayed in the Open.

The average death rate per thousand of population in Bristol during 1935 was 8 plus and the birth rate was 20.5 according to the annual report of the Bristol Board of Health. There was a total of 102 deaths, the same as in 1934 and a total of 242 births, an increase of six over the previous year.

The average deaths per month was nine with the largest number occurring in May and the smallest number in July and December. The average births per month was 20, with the largest number being reported in February, and the smallest number in January and July.

The report follows:

January 13, 1936.

To the President and Members,
Bristol Borough Council,
Bristol, Pa.

Gentlemen:

In submitting to you our annual report for the year ending December 31, 1935, we are pleased to announce that again the borough health records show freedom from any epidemic of serious disease. The majority of cases of communicable diseases reported were those which are considered common to children, i. e. measles, German measles, whooping cough and mumps. The number of communicable diseases reported during 1935 exceeded the number reported in 1934 by 18. The report for the year is marked by the fact that not a single case of typhoid fever was reported. There were 80 more cases of mumps during 1935, the majority of these being reported in the months of March, April and May. There were two cases less of whooping cough, four less of diphtheria, 14 less of chicken pox, 10 less of scarlet fever, and two less of tuberculosis, than in 1934. The number of cases of communicable diseases reported during the year was 261.

The health board met and organized February 7, 1935, by the election of Dr. H. Doyle Webb as president; Serrill D. Detlefson, secretary; John M. Wright, health officer and milk inspector; and John S. Roberts, Jr., plumbing inspector.

A greater number of permits were issued to milk distributors than at any time since the borough milk ordinance has been in effect, the number being 14, or four more than in the previous year. The licensed milk distributors are: Castanea Dairy Company, Trenton, N. J.; Clover Crest Dairy Farms, Newtown; B. Leon Cichaz, Bristol Township; Otto Haas, Bristol Township; John J. Devlin, South Langhorne; Joseph P. Canby & Son, of Hulmeville; Baldwin's Dairy, Frankford; Hugh Gallagher, Bristol Township; George C. Heath, Luigi Catalanotti, Keystone Dairy, Elwood Dyer, American Stores Company, Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Bristol. The sum of $71.25 received for these permits was paid over to the borough treasurer.

Monthly sediment tests of milk were taken and a careful check was kept upon the dealers by the milk inspector.

One more nuisance was reported to the board in 1935 than in 1934. The health officer investigated 154 nuisances during the year, and all but two of these have been abated.

Nine registered plumbers took out licenses which was three less than in 1934.

One sewer permit was issued which is five less than in 1934. Joseph McCarson was named a member of the board for a term of five years dating from January 1, 1935.

The state health department appointed Mrs. Mary S. Marseglia as local registrar to succeed Miss Rhoda Loechner, effective April 1, 1935.

The board during the year notified a number of food purveyors that more care must be exercised in the display of food products, and it is the intention of the board during the present year to enforce the rules of sanitation and to prevent as far as possible the display of food products in such a manner where they are subject to contamination.

There was an average birth rate of 20.5 per thousand of population, and a death rate of 8 plus per thousand during the year. This is the same as in the previous year. The census figures of 1930, showing a population of 11,800 were used as a working basis. The deaths in 1935 totalled 102, the same as in the previous year, and the births totaled 242, or six more than in 1934. The average deaths per month were 8 plus, the largest number occurring in

FAITHFUL TO THEIR TRUSTS

In giving an account of his stewardship of the borough for the year 1935 Burgess Clifford L. Anderson briefly summarizes the accomplishments of borough council in its management of the affairs of the municipality.

"The financial statement of our Borough again reflects wise and competent management on the part of the officers and committees who have charge of the various departments, which provide for the welfare of the citizens of our Borough," is the opening paragraph of the chief executive's message.

The Burgess enumerates the activities of the past year, such as rebuilding of streets, patching of others, improvements made at the water works, number of connections made to the water distribution system extended into Bristol Township, and he also compliments the police, fire and health departments and council, as a whole for "that careful and thoughtful consideration, as well as wisdom gained through experience, which have been given the various problems that have confronted them."

Borough council has managed faithfully and well the trusts imposed in it by the people. Bristol is not debt ridden as many communities are. The year ends with a balance and additional taxes will not have to be levied because of any deficits. It was carefully, economically and honestly managed by a council and officials with a Burgess at their head, having the welfare of the borough and its citizens at heart.

CURRENT ON THE FARM

Current has been turned on at the government's first finished rural electrification project, and a group of Iowa farm homes get energy to run electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, washing machines and flat-irons. Of course, many farms in many states already have these improvements, but REA represents a nation-wide governmental policy to make electricity available for all country folks who want it.

Each step of progress bringing conveniences to the people of the rural districts advances the general welfare of the country.

Rural free delivery of mail, telephones, radios, good roads, automobiles, electricity, have done wonders in distributing cultural advantages equally, erasing social dividing lines between country and city and unifying the nation.

WHY WORK?

In one country after another people have received, as a political doctrine, the old idea that it would be pleasant not to have to work for a living. The penny-wise all over the world flirt with the thought of having the government pay everybody in the land $2,400 a year or some such matter.

It occurs to us that it might be a good idea to have the scheme placed on a working basis—somewhere—just to see what happens. Some enthusiastic, and necessarily wealthy, supporter of the new economy could hire a distant island and try the system out.

Success: One who sweats in harness to make a lot of spending money for others. See mule.

Let us be patient. When the white man has civilized distant heathen, he may start on the white man.

BRISTOL BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH,
SERRILL D. DETLEFSON, Secretary.

"HIGH SCHOOL TRAGEDY"

by MAXINE CANTY

SYNOPSIS

Julie Martin, at 17, becomes an "inside" observer of the police investigation of the murder of her former French teacher, the pretty Constance ("Connie") Sinclair, who had been shot dead in her apartment by a party thus far unknown. Julie is on the "inside" because after school hours she is office assistant to Principal Perkins and the latter has detailed her as stenographer for Police Inspector O'Brien, who is busy examining suspects and others. Among those questioned, or wanted for questioning, are Julie herself and her boy friend, Dicky Ward, who was with her when she returned a pen to "Connie" a few hours before the tragedy; Mrs. Sardon, manager of the apartment house in which "Connie" was killed; Principal Perkins; Melvin Wright, the school janitor, who had been discharged for insolence to "Connie"; and who was missing since her death; Bruce Lloyd, her former fiancé, who refuses to say where he was on the murder night; and George Carrington, also reported to be a former suitor, who is now married. The latter seemed to have a perfect alibi for the fatal night but he admits to the police that his wife has been missing since that evening. Julie's father has become counsel for Lloyd. The authorities are anxious to find Mrs. Carrington. Meanwhile Inspector O'Brien urges Julie to keep her eyes and ears open but her mouth shut tight. After a conference with Principal Perkins in the latter's office, the Inspector invites Julie to ride to her home with him. "I want to see your father," he says in the presence of the Principal.

CHAPTER VIII

All the time I was putting on my hat I could feel Mr. Perkins looking at me. I think he suspected I was working for the Inspector, but maybe it was my own guilty conscience. Anyway, I forgot about it on the way home as I was so excited over driving there with an officer.

"I questioned Perkins rather thoroughly, but your tip on the book hasn't revealed much so far. He admits quite freely that he used to call on Miss Sinclair. He says that they had many interests in common, particularly in the way of books. He volunteered that as a matter of fact she had suggested that he read this book you saw, and that he supposed when he found it on her desk later that she had brought it down to give to him.

"I pointed out that you and the teachers had seen it at her apartment the afternoon of the murder."

"What did he say then?"

"He frowned and was silent for a few seconds. Then he shook his head and said he was as puzzled as I."

He stuck to his story that he found it at the school."

"Do you think that—that he was—well—fond of Miss Sinclair?" I asked the question hesitatingly.

The Inspector smiled at me. "Trying to get a romance out of it, little Julie? No, I don't think there was any romantic high school love affair. He seemed to feel quite casual about it, just naturally distressed and pained at such a thing happening in his institution and to a person he liked."

I thought the Inspector was hedging a little. No doubt he was not ready to trust me entirely yet. But his next remark indicated otherwise.

"Now, Miss Julie, I suggested this morning that you might be able to help me. I don't mean for you to go out with a magnifying glass and track down the criminal. I just mean that I have found you pretty sane and pretty discreet, thus far."

It occurs to me that that high school is boiling with excitement and shock over this crime; a public high school is a good cross-section of a town, that is, all classes are represented. Probably Miss Sinclair had some very important relationships that meet there. I think that it is a good place to have a representative."

"Yes, sir."

"People, even when they are completely innocent, are cagey with the police. You are just a kid, someone whom they all take for granted. I believe that with a level head and some power of observation, you might pick up a little information now and then. Would you like to do it?"

"Oh, yes, Inspector," I breathed. "O'Brien was pleased. He flashed a real Irish smile. 'Very well,' he laughed, 'let's say that Sherlock Holmes O'Brien has acquired a charming Miss Watson!'"

After the ride with the Inspector, I had a lot to think about that night and the next day. I really felt that I was entering a new era of my life, that I was truly grown up, and that perhaps I could impress the family with the fact, now that an important person like the Inspector regarded me so highly. I could hardly believe that I was in my right mind, so absolutely overwhelmed was I by the idea of working on the murder case. Believe me, though I realized my duty and responsibility, it was terribly, terribly hard not to tell Dicky when I was quivering all over inside with it. I knew the first duty of anyone in my position was to be self-contained.

So I tried to go about studying as usual and reciting in classes. Once or twice I must have made funny answers, for the teachers looked at me sort of queerly and the kids grinned.

I was preoccupied, of course. I had decided that besides keeping my eyes and ears open, I should also try to find out where I had seen Mrs. Sardon's handwriting. That strange sort of engraving haunted me; I was not satisfied that it was somewhat common as the Inspector said, for I could see on that same pale green background. She must use a very fine, steel pen, I mused, and write very slowly. It somehow did not fit into her personality very well.

I had seen her only that once when Dicky and I called on Miss Sinclair. As the Italian woman popped out of her door to watch us go upstairs, I got a pretty good look at her. She was not fat as many Latinas are, but rather large, tall, deep-breasted, well-built. Her face was dark without being swarthy with full lips and great brown eyes. She was wearing a wine-red wool dress that fitted her figure quite closely. I suppose one would say she was striking rather than beautiful. Dicky thought her good-looking, and I know there were others who said they thought so too. She frightened me that day, coming out so suddenly, and I never could like her.

It may have been the expression on her face that I did not like. She seemed sullen, unsmiling, suspicious. Her knowing so much about so many people afterward may have added to my impression. Her movements were all quick and gliding, not jerky; she was full of life and energy, I would say from even that brief glimpse of her. I know that I have read about eyes that blazed, but I never saw any that did until I looked back at her as she watched us up the stairs, just nodding at Connie's pleasant, "Good afternoon."

It may have been the woman's unusual personality that entranced me, but at any rate I worried a lot over her handwriting. I talked to Dicky about it on the way home Monday afternoon.

"Oh, cut it out," he said. "I think we have all thought so much about this darned case that we are going cuckoo about it. Let's talk about the dance for a change."

"All right," I answered amiably, thinking that maybe I was giving myself away. "I'm going to knock your eyes out with a new blue dress."

"And won't that be someone!" We discussed our crowd and whom we'd go with the rest of the way home. But when we got there, we were dragged back to the murder again, for there was a swell brown coupe in front of the house and Bruce Lloyd was standing on the porch.

"What's he doing here?" mumbled Dicky crossly.

"I don't know. Probably come to see Dad. Gee, isn't he good-looking!"

"I don't like that guy," growled Dicky. "I wouldn't be at all surprised if he bumped her off."

"Well, maybe he wouldn't have the nerve. He looks too perfect to be even a good murderer."

I climbed over the door of the car with what dignity I could in that performance, silently wishing he would see that it would open in the future. I smoothed down my green skirt, bloused my white sweater a little more, and patted my hair before taking out my books. Then I said very sweetly, "Well, I think he's gorgeous!"

I sauntered up the walk as Dicky rattled away. But I walked a little too slowly, for Mr. Lloyd left the porch and met me on the walk. He lifted his hat politely as he passed me, but of course I had never met him. Mother waited at the door for me and consoled me by saying that he was coming for dinner. I immediately rushed upstairs to decide what to wear. I really didn't have a decent thing in my whole closet.

I thought I ought to look sweet and sympathetic and, instead, every darned dress I could find was what Dicky would call "snappy."

Mother called me downstairs to set the table before I had made up my mind. I was shocked to find that she had not changed her dress at all.

"What are you going to wear to-night, Mother?"

"Wear where?"

"Why to dinner, of course."

"My dear child, what do I usually wear? I think this print will stand up very well under the strain. Why?"

"Well, nothing, only with Mr. Lloyd coming—"

"He is not coming on a social invitation. He wants to consult your father. I felt rather sorry for the young man, and so I just told him to drop back in time for dinner."

Well, I could hardly get dressed up after that. So I got out a violet linen dress I had had that summer and put on some white pumps. Mother said I looked nice, which made me rather doubt the effect. As a matter of fact, Bruce scarcely saw me, I guess. He seemed awfully worried. We tried not to talk about Connie, but of course the subject would come up.

Mother and Dad really liked Bruce, and I am sure everyone can guess what I thought about him. But father Allen acted as if he almost hated him. He was awfully nervous all during dinner and excused himself right afterward to go to the library. Of course, I knew Allen was crazy about Miss Sinclair, had been terribly upset over her death, and was now jealous of Bruce because he had been her fiancé. Mother was concerned over Allen's "nerves."

As we sat in the living room after dinner, it was harder than ever to keep away from the case. We just did not try to at all after Dad brought in the evening paper. It certainly gave us food for conversation. . . . Hym, the Filipino, had been found in San Francisco!

Announce Reduced Rates For Sunday Phone Calls

Introduction of reduced Sunday rates for out-of-town telephone calls and inauguration of new low night rates for person-to-person calls have been announced by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Schedules covering the rates on calls to points within Pennsylvania have been filed with the Public Service Commission in Harrisburg and with the Federal Communications Commission in Washington for interstate calls.

Briefly, the new tariffs provide for extension of the existing night-time reductions on station-to-station calls to include all day Sunday, and introduction of low rates for person-to-person calls.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the heralding of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

son calls every night and all day Sunday.

The new Sunday rates will become effective next Sunday, January 19. The reduced person-to-person rates went into effect yesterday, January 15, and will be in force every night of the week from 7 p. m. until 4.30 a. m.

Heretofore, the rate for a person-to-person call—which is a call made to a specific person—always has been the same both day and night. The new tariff schedule establishes reductions on these calls in cases where the day rate is fifty-five cents or more for the initial three-minute period. On station-to-station calls, reductions at night and on Sunday apply where the day rate is forty cents or more.

Extension of the night rates on station-to-station calls so that they will be applicable all day Sunday means that these low rates, as well as the reduced night rates on person-to-person calls, will be in effect continuously from 7 p. m. Saturday until 4.30 a. m. Monday.

The new rates mark the second time within a year that changes have been made involving out-of-town calls. Last June 1 the telephone company discontinued the evening rates covering the period from 7 to 8.30 p. m., and substituted the lower night rates. By this change, the lowest out-of-town rates became effective each night from 7 p. m. to 4.30 a. m.

TWO GOOD GAMES BOOKED FOR TONIGHT

Two important contests are scheduled for tonight on the Italian Mutual Aid floor as the closing of the first half schedule draws near. In the first game, the Moose will attempt to stop the winning streak of the Third Ward Rangers and in the second contest, the Hibernians play the Odd Fellows.

A victory for the Moose over the Pikers and a Hibs' win over the Odd Fellows will make a triple deadlock between the Moose, Oddies and Rangers. That is the situation as it stands today, the Moose a one-half game behind the league-leaders.

Many of the fans expect the Hibernians to topple over the fast-going Odd Fellows. Marty Fallon's minions have improved greatly and in its last contest with the Oddies dropped the tilt by one marker. Fallon will use Eddie Roe, Colbert, Plack, Ad Roe, and Hun Rodgers as his starting line-up with Herman having Weideman, Frankovic, Hines, Riemer and Smith.

Ney McGinley is not giving up hope for the first half and is out to beat the team which knocked him from the top-perch in the league standing. He will use Lawrence, Green, Dougherty, Dugan and Joe Roe with Manager Vito Della starting Lake, Bornice, Tallo, Lawler and Massilla.

First game is scheduled for eight o'clock sharp.

ERNIE DUSEK PINS GEORGE KOVERLY

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 16 — Ernie Dusek, toughest of the Omaha Duseks and picked by many as the grappler who will lift the purple toga from the shoulders of Danno O'Mahony, disposed of George Koverly, of Hollywood, last night in the feature windup at the Arena.

Koverly won the first fall principally because of his off-color tactics, but he absorbed considerable punishment after that, for when it comes to handing it out, Ernie Dusek is Public Enemy No. 1. Dusek scored the second fall with a body press and he had the crowd of 1,500 standing on the seats as he whirled Koverly around a half-dozen times in the air before crashing him down to the mat for the final fall. For all the punishment he absorbed, Koverly had fight left in him after the third fall and engaged in his usual brushes with the spectators.

Staged after the main bout, the match between Vic Christie and the Blue Mask proved a good attraction, with the pair grappling to a 30-minute draw. The Blue Mask impressed the fans as a clever wrestler and more than held his own with the finished Christie. The Blue Mask specializes in a knuckle head-lock and used it to advantage last night.

In the other bouts of the evening, Sandor Vary topped Tony Colesano, while Jack Hader and Laverne Baxter tugged to a 30-minute draw.

NAME RICHARD WINSLOW PRES'T OF GAME ASS'N

The quarterly meeting of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association was held Tuesday evening at Coleman's Cigar Store, Mill street and Highway. Officers elected for 1936 are: President, Richard Winslow; vice president, Howard Black; treasurer, Ralph Ratcliffe; secretary, John Johnson; board of governors, Robert Sutton, Walter King, Frank Crohe, Edward Pickering, Jr., and Leon Conly. The appointment of a fish and game committee was left to the discretion of the president, and will be announced later.

Recently 40 cans of catfish and blue gills were placed in the waters of Maple Beach and the Neshaunty Creek, and one can of large-mouth black bass and five cans of miscellaneous fish were dumped in the canal. Efforts will be made to secure other supplies of different kinds of fish to be placed in these waters, particularly the canal which is rapidly becoming a favorite fishing place, especially for large-mouth black bass, of which specie hundreds were caught during the season which closed November 30. It was a common occurrence during the season to see early in the morning and late in the evening, cars parked along the canal banks and the anglers busily engaged at their favorite pastime. The canal waters are ideal for this kind of fish, and extending as they do for miles, afford more opportunity for a greater number of fishermen than any other water in lower Bucks county.

Since the close of the hunting season, over 150 pheasants have been released by the Association, and 30 cock birds are held awaiting favorable weather conditions.

During the year about 300 birds were placed in surrounding covers. The association bought about 60 of these, and the balance were furnished by the game commission.

The project of cleaning and restocking Silver Lake, known more familiarly as the Mill Pond, was discussed, and members have every reason to believe that in the near future this work will be underway. The plans are said to contemplate cleaning out what is known as the Black Ditch, starting above the Bolton Farms, making it a free-running stream from there to its junction with Silver Lake. The cleaning out of Silver Lake, and the building of dams and retaining dikes, and the raising of the present water level some three feet, and the restocking with fish suitable for these waters. These improvements will change the lake from its present condition of a mud-hole and breeding place for disease-spreading mosquitoes to a beautiful sheet of water, and bring back its old-time glory of a fisherman's paradise.

At the next meeting the association confidently expects to have two instructors from Lehigh University who will lecture on the different kind of snakes, their habits and adaptability for good or evil, and will exhibit during the lecture living specimens. The membership committee extends its usual plea for all sportsmen of this and surrounding communities to join the association, and by force of numbers, aid the association to secure even better results than so far attained.

Six new members were added to the rolls at this meeting in addition to the old members renewing their membership.

Mother Confident Hauptmann Won't Be Electrocuted

the defense, turned thumbs down on this suggestion. He said:

"What can Mrs. Hauptmann tell the Governor that he does not already know? There has been enough sensationalism in the case."

Fisher planned to visit Hauptmann in his cell this afternoon. So did Mrs. Hauptmann. She will bring a picture of her baby in a sailor's suit to Bruno. He waited her to do this. The sailor's suit was given to the child for a Christmas present by Fisher.

The legal move in Washington, planned for today, will be handled by Attorneys Neil Burkinshaw and Nugent Dadds. They are the constitutional lawyers recently added to defense counsel.

Leaving Trenton for Washington they obtained Hauptmann's signature to a petition which they will submit to one of the nine Justices of the United States Supreme Court.

This petition asks the Supreme Court Justice for permission to make a petition for an original writ of habeas corpus. It was explained here that the Supreme Court does not act immediately on such a petition—that usually it requires about ten days for an answer.

The filing of such an application would give Governor Hoffman the opportunity—if he were inclined to the Supreme Court would have time embrace it—to grant a reprieve so to act on the petition.

STOMACH VICTIM REJOICES!

"Couldn't Sleep, Was a Nervous Wreck!"

Dan Littman Says, "Thank God! Vikonite Gave Me a New Grip on Life!"

In his own sincere way, Dan Littman, of 1630 Diamond St., Phila., tells how Vikonite helped him win his battle for health. Read his amazing story at the right.

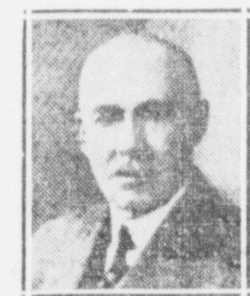

"For years constipation and digestive troubles plagued me—I was always rundown and desperately victimized by attacks of gas and throbbing headaches," Dan Littman reports. "I couldn't sleep. I was nervous. I thought I'd go insane. Only recently I tried a bottle of Vikonite. The results were marvelous. It has ended dread sleepless nights and those fits of nervousness. Now I feel strong as an ox."

Thousands like Dan Littman now enjoy a new kind of sleep, keener appetites, stronger nerves and richer health. With words of gratitude, they tell how the tiredness, weakness and stomach misery have gone out of their lives since drinking this new mineralized plant juice discovery, known to druggists here as Vikonite. Read Dr. Booth's statement below as he explains how Vikonite does so much good for so many people.

DOCTOR'S INSIDE STORY

Dr. Booth Explains Vikonite's Amazing Power to Rouse Appetite, Improve Sleep, Aid Digestion, Nerves, Body Tone!

"There is scarcely a man or woman living who would not be benefited by an enriched supply of red blood cells and a thorough cleansing of the system such as VIKONITE accomplishes," stated Dr. Booth. "I am constantly amazed to see the remarkable changes resulting in a few short weeks from taking VIKONITE. There is a definite increase of vigor, appetite, nerve power. Sleep is sounder. Bowel action satisfactory. I heartily recommend Vikonite to every health seeker."

Dr. E. E. Booth, M.D., advises Vikonite to get back grip on health.

Put Vikonite to the Test

"Start Vikonite today and see how soon life takes on a different meaning for you. Watch your stomach distress, indigestion, gas, bloating, raging headaches and nervousness go as Vikonite sweeps the system clear of constipation poisons. No more sleepless nights or dog-tired days.
